Dear Colonel Warren:

We are inclosing a record of discussions held here a few days ago during the visit of Colonel Freidell. We had hoped that you might be with us at the time, and were sorry that ill health prevented this.

I should like to add my personal indorsement to the requests outlined in the accompanying memorandum. We all have the feeling that at the present time the hazards of workers at Site Y are probably very much more serious than those at any other branch of the Project, and that it would be appropriate that the medical program of the Manhattan District consider some of our problems rather more intensively than they have in the past.

I think that you yourself know the reason for some of these hazards, and we tried to give Colonel Freidell a picture of them. I believe that the order of priority outlined in the accompanying memorandum is a wise one. Although we would have some ideas of how to pursue all of the topics mentioned, we have, as you know, neither the personnel nor the facilities which would be involved in this.

It was our impression that if other workers on the medical program were better informed about what was important from our point of view they would probably be glad to help us out. Certainly we will appreciate any help that you can give us.

Sincerely yours,

J R Oppenheimer

J. R. Oppenheimer.
